

Massachusetts Football Leadership Summit

Saturday, May 5, 9AM–1PM

Massachusetts Maritime Academy

Admirals Hall, Harrington Building, 101 Academy Drive, Buzzards Bay, Massachusetts

Every high school football coach knows kids are different from when we played the game: they are not as physically or mentally tough, not as coachable or confident, and are unable to form deep, old-school camaraderie on and off the field.

Bring your top leaders, captains, or leadership council and join Coaches Jeremy Cameron of Mass Maritime, Dan Buron of Bridgewater-Raynham High School, Ryan Brown of St. Thomas Aquinas, and team builder and sports life coach Jeff Levin of Jeff Levin Coaching for a half-day workshop where you and your players will learn how to empower your leaders to be the engine for change on your team. Experience new methods to motivate and communicate better with modern, "digitized" kids so they can be more confident, resilient, team-centered athletes who learn to embody the virtues required to drive a great football program from within.

Kids are hard-wired the same as they have always been; in today's "Digital Age" we just have to learn new ways to reach them. We will take you and your players through a step-by-step methodology so your team leaders can learn hard, concrete skills to

- Shed stress
- Let go of mistakes
- Develop confidence, mental and physical toughness, and resilience
- Improve focus and accountability
- Think and behave like leaders – be great teammates and highly coachable athletes.

You and your players will build confidence together and then take that home to motivate the rest of your team.

We will provide specific techniques so you can incorporate what you learn in your off-season workouts. Our blueprint will help you develop a culture of confident, high-performing student-athletes who take pride in striving to be great!
